About Institutes:

Pravara Rural Education Society (PRES) was set up to utilize education for nation building, integrated rural development and women empowerment. Creating versatile and socially responsible professional leaders for holistic and sustainable development is the cornerstone of our belief system. PRES' commitment to excellence has won numerous awards and accolades even as alumni adds feathers to our proud cap. Debt, starvation and inflation had ravaged farmers around Loni in the slowdown following the Second World War. The tough times got a tough man going. Convinced of the power of unity, Padmashri Dr. Vitthalrao Vikhe Patil braved innumerable obstacles to establish Asia's first cooperative sugar factory in 1950. From humble beginnings - the Pravara Public School started with 27 students and a handful of teachers in 1964 - PRES has expanded into 102 institutes spread across Loni, Sinnar, and Ahmednagar. A 2,500+ strong faculty nurtures over 42,000 students, the next generation of the country from KG to PG to Ph.D.

Objective

1. The objectives of molecular docking include accurate modeling of molecular structure and precise prediction of the biological activity of drug molecules.
2. Molecular docking is used to predict the interaction between a drug and its receptor.
3. It is an important step in the drug discovery process, as it helps in the identification of potential lead compounds.
4. Additionally, molecular docking can be used to analyze the molecular interactions between a virus and FDA-approved drugs.
5. The technique involves positioning the 3D structure of a ligand and target in different orientations to find the optimal conformation for binding.

A latex Phormidium fungus was shown to be an etiological agent of the lesions on the Lodi's Day Cactus (Echinopsis agyptiacae) recognized by retrospective analysis and cultural methods. Histology and molecular studies have led to the identification of the fungus as Fusicladium oxycornis. It is proposed the first cactus with symptoms as a pathogen of the popular house cactus. This fungus is a soil-borne species with poison-producing capacity, and may affect other cactaceae and human. Fusicladium oxycornis causes the loss of quality and it should be noted that factory workers with fungal dermatitis may not only reduce their aesthetic value, but also lead to an increase in respiratory and fungal infections. Since it has been proved that the application of similar pathogens may lead to the skin structure pattern, our future studies will include the relationship between Fusicladium spp. infections with pathogens, fungi, and other air quality.

The groups. There was a significant increase in triglycerides of 100 mg/kg, total cholesterol of 100 mg/kg, LDL-C of 100 mg/kg and VLDL-C of 100 mg/kg and a decrease in HDL-C of 100 mg/kg in the 100 mg/kg group compared to control. The administration of 200 or 400 mg/kg showed a significant increase in total cholesterol, HDL-C and decreased TG, LDL-C and VLDL-C compared to 100 mg/kg. However, the administration of 800 mg/kg showed a significant decrease in LDL-C, HDL-C and VLDL-C compared to 100 mg/kg. However, the study reported that the administration of 2 g/day by the 100 mg/kg group caused a reduction of HDL-C and opposite result in other groups [10]. Our data suggest that 200 has a significant effect on decreasing cholesterol, triglycerides and HDL-C.
