The Workshop was inaugurated with Pratima Pujan. Then Prof Dr. Sunil Nirmal introduced the Speaker and explained the rationale and aim of the workshop. The event was co-ordinated by Prof.S.B.Kakad. Mr. Magar began with discussing the history of the Pharmaceutical Industry. He told about the global scenario and told that the Indian Pharmaceutical Industry is one of the fastest emerging International Centre for contract research and manufacturing services. He discussed the SWOT Analysis. He discussed the challenges faced by Pharmaceutical Industries.

He added saying that India is among the leading global producers of cost effective generic medicines and vaccines, supplying 20 percent of the total global demand by volume. The Pharmaceutical industry has made a great deal of progress over the last decade due to the research oriented approach that has improved technologies, developed infrastructures and increased research in the field of bioscience. It was an interactive session. The students actively participated and involved in the discussion session. At the end Prof. Dr. R.B. Laware proposed vote of thanks.

The Key note Speaker Mr. Itkar threw light on the Current Topic on Drug Regulatory Affairs. He explained that the Regulatory Affairs is a profession developed from the desire of the Government to protect public Health by controlling the safety and the efficacy of the products in the areas including Pharmaceuticals, Veterinary Products, medical devices, pesticides, agrochemicals, cosmetics and complementary medicines, and by the companies responsible for the discovery, testing, manufacture and marketing of these products wanting to ensure that they supply products that are safe and that they make a contribution to the Public Health and Welfare.

The aim of the workshop was to give the clear understanding of the International Guidelines and local laws and regulations affecting pharmaceutical, biological, Natural Health products and medical devices.

He explained the role of Regulatory Affairs in the Pharmaceutical Company. The event was coordinated by Prof. P. P. Hazare. Students of Final Year and M. Pharm were present for this function. The students actively participated and involved in the discussion session. Finally Prof. P. P. Hazare proposed vote of thanks.

Co-ordinator Mr. S.B.Kakad introduced the speaker Dr. Deepak Raut, Asso. Prof Amrutvahini College of Pharmacy Sangamner. Principal Dr. Priya Rao gave the welcome address.

Prof. Raut began the session at 11 am. He explained how Pharma Regulatory Affairs act as an Interface between Pharmaceutical Industry and Drug Regulatory Authorities across the world. The function of Pharma regulatory affairs is to ensure that pharmaceutical products to be marketed should meet all the regulatory expectations with regards to Quality, Purity, Safety and Efficacy. The workshop aimed to provide information on the functional domains and scope of Pharma regulatory.

The workshop proved to be effective to tone up the knowledge in Regulatory Affairs and also gave an insight to the students in the regulatory departments. Dr. R.B. Laware gave the vote of thanks.

Mr Inamdar began with Basics of the Clinical Research and Clinical Trials explaining it in detail, why and when are they conducted the four phases of clinical trials. He explained the importance of clinical trials. He further added how a clinical trial is performed and what sort of preparation is needed, who can participate in the clinical trials, who sponsors the clinical trials. He further explained the concepts of IND and NDA what is an investigational product. He also talked about Good Clinical Practices. It was a two way discussion where students eagerly participated. Prof. Laware proposed the vote of Thanks.
